

Essay Prize in Conjunction with the Annual Praxis Award in Professional Ethics
Call for Papers

The Ethics Program in the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences at Villanova University issues a call for paper submissions in conjunction with our 17th annual Praxis Award in Professional Ethics, which will be awarded on March 29, 2023. The Praxis Award highlights and celebrates the contributions of a professional or an academic in the field of professional ethics.

The best essay will receive a $500 prize; this year the focus of the award is IMMIGRATION.

Deadline for submissions is March 1, 2023. Email the submission to Ms. Peggy Elder at peggy.elder@villanova.edu.

For this prize, we encourage undergraduate and graduate students to consider submitting an essay related to immigration.

The ideal paper will be ~2000 words, and either advance an ethical position related to immigration or will provide analysis directly relevant to advancing an ethical position on a topic in this area.

All submissions will be considered as long as the topic and analysis contribute to ethical analysis of immigration; possible topics include, but are not limited to, an analysis of the Deferred Action for Childhood Arrivals Program, current US border policy, the right of free movement, etc.

A paper already submitted for publication or published in disqualified.

A winner will be selected by a faculty committee, and the student will be honored as part of the Praxis Award celebration.